

THREE BEEF TRUST RECIPES

These three items are taken from the government report, made in the form of an affidavit. They show how sausage, potted ham and canned meats are put up.

Canned Meats

"We saw meat shovelled from filthy wooden floors, piled on tables rarely washed, pushed from room to room in rotten box carts, in all of which process it was in the way of gathering dirt, splinters, floors filthy and the expectation of tuberculous and other diseased workers. Where comment was made to floor superintendent, he about these matters it was always the reply that this meat would be cooked."

Sausage

"The employees carried the chopped-up meat across a room in a narrow, the handles of which were filthy with grease. The meat was then thrown out upon the tables, and the employee climbed upon the table, handled the meat with his unwashed hands, knelt with his dirty apron and trousers in contact with the meat he was spreading out, and after he had finished his operation, again took hold of the dirty handles of the wheelbarrow, went back for another load and repeated the process indefinitely. This meat was for sausage, being prepared to be eaten uncooked."

To Make Potted Ham

"A long table was covered with several hundred pounds of cooked scraps of beef and other meats. Some of these scraps were dry, leathery and unfit to be eaten, and in the heap were found pieces of pigskin."

and even some bits of rope strands and other rubbish. Inquiry evoked the frank admission from the man in charge that this was to be ground up and used in making "potted ham."

ANOTHER MINER MOVES HERE

Albert Jackson, of Reno, will move to this city to live, on account of the fine climate, the pleasant surroundings and the absence of the rough element that makes life on the main line of the S. P. actually hazardous for a family.

Jackson made a strike at Big Mouth canyon, on the lower Truckee river, about 14 miles from Wadsworth, and has several promising claims in addition to his strike. Ore has been taken from Big Mouth that milled $1 a pound.
